STATE TARGETED SOCIAL PROGRAMME
on Combating Trafficking in Human Beings
for the period until 2015

The Aim of the Programme

The aim of the Programme is to prevent trafficking in human beings, increase the effectiveness of persecution of persons who commit or facilitate trafficking-related crimes, as well as to protect the rights of victims of trafficking and provide them with assistance.

Means and ways of solving the problem

The first option consists of solving the problem of trafficking in human beings through carrying out systematic measures by state authorities for budget funds. The disadvantage of this option is that its implementation requires a considerable amount of budget funds.

The second, best option foresees the set-up of cooperation between state authorities and non-governmental organisations, in particular the implementation of an effective referral mechanism in the sphere of combatting trafficking in human beings in the following areas:

organisation of awareness-raising activities among the population, aimed at preventing people from getting into trafficking-related situations;

increasing the professional level of specialists who provide assistance to victims of trafficking and implement their rehabilitation and social integration;

carrying out continuous monitoring of the implementation efficiency of activities aimed at combating trafficking in human beings;

increasing the quality of services provided to victims of trafficking, in particular by implementing standards in social service provision to such persons.

Forecasted amount and sources of funding of the Programme are provided in Annex 1.
